ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY

Even though Island Life Productions is a small organisation, we acknowledge that every island has its part to play in making the world a sustainable place to live and work. To that end, Island Life Productions commits to taking the following actions in its work to combat climate change:

- Encouraging those who engage with our work to take public transport (or car-share if necessary).
  - Cycling to local meetings where possible.
- Using claimexpenses.com to track the CO2 impact of all company travel
- Offering exclusively vegetarian catering on all company projects (whilst striving towards as much plant-based food as possible)
- Continuing to work remotely and run as much of our work online as reasonably possible.
- Using minimal amounts of equipment and materials and only sourcing those which are environmentally responsible.
  - Offering all documents for projects digitally and not printing unless necessary.
    - Recycling all our waste appropriately.
- Continuing to engage with like-minded organisations on best practice surrounding sustainable arts-making.

- Conducting an annual review of this policy to ensure it is relevant to our work and optimally minimises Island Life Productions' carbon footprint.
